Coal Dust Problems Are Discussed

A closed meeting to discuss the local dust problem in Coleman was held there, attended by Professor J. C. Lack, air pollution and control section, Division of Environmental Health Service.

Also present were Donalda Oliva and Sam Sagoff of the Coleman Citizens' Committee, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Meronik, representing the I. D., Nora Goulding and John Salus of the Crows Nest Pass School Division Board and Mayor John Holyk and councillor Earl Schmidt, representing the town.

Charles Drain, M.L.A., acted as committee chairman and Jack Diskin executive vice - president of the coal company, represented the Coleman Collieries.

The dust problem, it was reported, has increased since the construction of the Collieries new coal cleaning plant which was put into use last spring. Reports indicated that the dust from the plant appeared oily and clung to clothing and buildings.

Mr. Diskin advised that the problem was unique in that it was believed to be caused by the altitude in this area, causing a steam discharge from one of the plant's stacks to condense and mix dust, thereby creating the nuisance.

He said the problem was one that had not been anticipated. The coal company has been in consultation with the engineering firm in Chicago which designed the plant. He said plans had been received from the engineers for remodeling the original plans of the plant.

The coal company now proposed to take immediate action on rebuilding and remodeling sections of the plant in an attempt to relieve the problem. It is anticipated that this work will take about three months.

Mr. Diskin also advised that the company is planning on reducing the size of its stockpiling yards near the mine plant and the storage area will also be enclosed to reduce dust blowing to a minimum.

Mr. Diskin also informed the meeting that the Collieries had this spring embarked upon a rehabilitation program of regrassing, landscaping and levelling off coal and rubble piles around Coleman and district which have appeared through 60 years of mining.

The meeting concluded after a motion was made that the committee reconvene in six months and meet with the coal company to see what progress has been made.

Coleman To Hire A Policeman

Coleman council at its meeting Nov. 25 disclosed that the town was going to hire its own policeman from the Canadian Security Police Academy at Ardrie. The constable will be hired as from Jan. 1 for one year.

Blairmore who are paying -18,500 a year for RCMP service will meet the town of Coleman police committee to discuss police service.

Two representatives of Underwood McEllan and Associates were present and discussed plans with council for the town's paving program will be approximately $150,000. The program covers most of the main thoroughfares in the town.

Town foreman Rudy Szymanski reported that work of laying of most sewer lines in town has been completed to the property lines. This has been done so that when the paving program is done, streets will not have to be torn up.

The town received an offer of $3,000 for the old Coleman Hotel property now owned by the town. Interested parties have indicated they wish to spend between $30-$50,000 to update the building and convert it into an apartment block. Council will advise that the price for the building and lots has been set at $5,000.

Council approved making the annual contribution of $5 to each Coleman resident in Crestview Lodge Pincher Creek for a Christmas gift. Town employees will also receive the usual Christmas bonus.

Complaints were received regarding hordes of dogs running at large in town. Since the town no longer has a dog catcher, the matter will be left until the new town constable takes over his duties.

Referee Clinic Successful

Thirteen individuals participated in a referee's clinic held in the Blairmore Arena on the weekend of Nov. 15 and 16.

Mr. Leo Harrold, representing the referee's division of the AAHA instructed the clinic and was very pleased with the keen interest shown. The clinic included eight hours of rule book study, along with two hours of ice demonstration. The clinic concluded with a written exam and each participant received a mark on his working knowledge of the CAHA rules.

Followup is a list of people who received instruction at this clinic: From Blairmore: Tom Richards, Michael Gleave, Albert Aris, Herbert Longworth, Alf Longworth, Michael Kusin, Robert Grey, Gordon Bossenberry and d. Will Peressini; from Bellevue, Peter Vatsenout, Leslie Stryer and Roy. Paton. C. A. Ellison from Lundbreck also participated.

From our viewpoint, the clinic was a tremendous success. The Pass now has 12 individuals who have received special instruction on refereeing.

For their special efforts in attending the clinic, "Flip of the Fez" from the Recreation Board.

The bridesmaids wore matching short blue dresses of fortrel crepe elegance styled with bell sleeves and nehru collar and silver shoes. They carried small bouquets of white mums and wore white flowers in their hair. The church altar was decorated with blue and mauve toned chrysanthemums, and the pews were decorated with blue pew bows.

The three-tiered wedding cake was made by the bride's grandmother and decorated by Mrs. Betty Fauvillat. The cake was flanked by blue flowers and a white belltop decoration with white and blue lilies of the valley. White wedding candles flanked the cake and blue lighted tapers set in heart-shaped candleholders were used on all the tables. Mrs. Tina MacQuarrie was in charge of the guest book.

Depositors are again reminded that after Dec. 31, 1969, all accounts with balance of less than $25 which have been inactive for 30 years or more will revert to the crown and will not be recoverable. Cyclamates And Smoking

Canada, playing Charlie McCarthy to the United States' Edgar Bergen, banned cyclamates—the supposedly cancer-causing artificial sweetener in soft drinks and diet foods—just days after the U.S. did.

The question is—if Canada can ban cyclamates so fast and on such slim evidence—why not cigarettes? The number of reports linking cancer with smoking must now fill rooms down at Ottawa. But our legislators are afraid to stop the sale of tobacco.

Evidence against cyclamates was much thinner than the indictment of tobacco. Some 35 rats were fed cyclamates over a 104-day period—11 developed bladder cancer and 19 got preliminary cancer symptoms.

But when Health Minister John Munro announced the ban, he noted a 150 pound man would have to drink 500 cans of cyclamate-sweetened pop each day for his entire life—to get the same dose as these test rats. Asked how he justified banning the sweetener and not tobacco, Mr. Munro said it was a matter of being realistic—Canadians would obey a ban on the sweetener—but ignore a ban on smoking.

Government officials are gun-shy after the shambles of prohibition. It taught them that if it is not easy to ban a product to which large numbers of people are addicted.

Few people are hooked on no-cal drinks—but millions are addicted to cigarettes. The only solution seems to be education. Most schools carry on anti-smoking campaigns from the lowest grades—rising to a crescendo in high school.

Because of this, great numbers of children are frantic with their parents for continuing to smoke. Education may not save the present generation of smokers—but it is scaring the habit out of their children.

Premier Strom Endorses Christmas Seal Campaign

The work of the Alberta Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association and the Christmas Seal Campaign receive high commendation from the Premier of Alberta, the Hon. Harry Strom. "I am very happy to lend my name in endorsement of this worthy cause and extend my sincere wishes for a successful campaign", said Mr. Strom.

The Hon. Mr. James D. Henderson, minister of health for the province of Alberta, is equally enthusiastic about the work of the association, and also strongly recommends that Albertans buy and use Christmas Seals on all their Christmas mail. "This shows that they care", said the minister.

Mr. D. R. McKillop, Calgary, president of the ATRDA, reports on the Canadian scene—4,581 new active cases of tuberculosis and 751 relapses in 1968. This brings the total number of TB cases for 1968 to 5,327, which is 175 more than in 1967. There were 5,827 deaths from chronic bronchitis and lung cancer in 1968, and the number of deaths from emphysema has more than quadrupled in the last 10 years. This is ample evidence that the work of the mobile and stationary chest X-ray clinics must be carried on. The co-operation of the public in attending these clinics is essential to the continued search and early treatment of tuberculosis, chronic bronchitis, emphysema, lung cancer, asthma, and other chest conditions. Contributions to the Christmas Seal Campaign is one way of helping to detect and control TB and R.D.

...how you can tell when something is prevented?

You can see the results of a specific preventive program in your local community when an undesirable social condition improves. Providing support and creating the opportunity for municipalities to establish needed programs such as homemaker services, day care and family life centres, is the prime long-range service offered by the Social Planning Branch of the Alberta Department of Social Development. Assistance provided takes the form of continuing consultation with locally appointed directors and cost-sharing of expenditures on particular projects. The service is available to all municipalities in the province and under local arrangement many neighbouring towns take advantage of shared resources to implement joint preventive efforts for the benefit of individuals and families in their combined areas. A folder outlining the concept and aims of preventive social service and the role taken by local directors is available from this Branch on request.

Wise use of our natural resources is the objective of a unique program which is organized and administered by the 4-H and Junior Forest Warden Branch of the Alberta Department of Youth. Volunteers supervise Junior Forest Warden and Girl Forest Guard Clubs in a program for young people who love the great outdoors. Each year hundreds of boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 18, in all parts of the province, become involved in this long-range educational program. Week-end outings and summer time camping are just part of their year-round activities which include regular meetings and community service projects such as tree planting, and complete clean-up campaigns. Members learn to recognize erosion and pollution, understand the danger, and how to take effective control measures in order to protect our forests, soil, waters, fish and wildlife. From the thousands of young people who first started as Junior Forest Wardens and Girl Forest Guards many have chosen future careers as biologists and foresters.

...when a hole in the ground becomes a mine?

Regulations governing safety in coal mining and quarry operations are administered by the Director and his staff of inspectors of the Mines Division of the Alberta Department of Mines and Minerals. The excavation of oil sands, and in simplified terms any digging for removal of minerals can be considered a mining operation and a permit to operate must be obtained before the operation commences. For the benefit of workers, all sanitary and other facilities must be approved by the Division. Managers and other supervisory staff must pass certification examinations. Continuous safety checks are carried out by District Inspectors on all electrical systems, while machinery and equipment must meet approved standards. All mines and quarries throughout the province are identified by number and plans and maps are recorded and kept under the same number. These are also available for inspection by any interested person at the office of the Mines Division.

Have you ever considered...

...confirming your facts about trust companies?

All trust companies handling money for you in this province, whether provincially or federally chartered, must be fully registered with the Alberta Department of the Attorney General through the Director of Trust Companies. You can check with the Director about what regulations exist for your protection and confirm any facts you're unsure of concerning the type of services offered to the public by these companies. All such institutions in the deposit taking and investment certificate business are required to be members of the Canada Deposit Insurance Corporation, which automatically insures your funds up to a maximum of $20,000. The department's auditing and accounting staff continually process all annual financial statements, quarterly reports or monthly bulletins prepared by trust companies which must be submitted to the Director for examination and approval. Any public complaints relating to trust company operations in Alberta are investigated and immediately dealt with by the Director.

An active program of assistance and providing means to help people of this province eliminate prejudice and discrimination is available through the Human Rights Branch of the Alberta Department of Labour. The full-time staff of this Branch work directly with community and church groups, service clubs, associations, schools and other institutions providing an organizational arm for informative discussions, forums, presentations and workshops dealing with the practice of human rights. A variety of publications, folders and pamphlets detailing the protective measures of the Alberta Human Rights Act are available on request. Display scrolls and printed wall placards are also available without charge. Any person who feels he has suffered discrimination in employment, public and apartment accommodation or public services because of his colour, race, religion, place of origin or ancestry may file a written complaint with the Administrator. All such complaints are investigated through the facilities and authority of the Administrator who acts to seek settlement and satisfaction for the person involved.

...music that is easy, or difficult?

You can choose your reference selections of sheet music from the extensive library of published music, including solo works, ensemble orchestrations and choral scores maintained by the Cultural Development Branch, Music Division, of the Alberta Department of the Provincial Secretary. This reference service is provided without a charge on a monthly basis. Complete listings are available on request under recorder, choral, or instrumental groupings — with most numbers graded in categories from easy to difficult.

This year, thousands of musically talented men and women, boys and girls from all over the province also took advantage of the consulting service and local workshops that can be arranged through supervisors of the Division. Another major activity organized each year is the province-wide Summer Workshop series that draws many internationally famous artists and educators to Alberta to help develop local musical talent. Plans for the 12th annual event, to be followed by regional concert tours, are underway. Workshop fees include tuition, board and lodging.

Reprints of this complete series on government services are available on request. For your copy, write:

Alberta Athletes To Be Honored

Alberta athletes who have won outstanding recognition at the Canadian or international level of competition will be honored by the government of the province of Alberta at a banquet on Saturday, Dec. 13 at the Dunwoodie Room, Student Union Building, University of Alberta, Edmonton.

In previous years, Alberta athletes who brought distinction to the province were honored by the government of the province of Alberta through being presented to the legislature. This procedure is no longer feasible because of the increasing number of persons bringing athletic honors to the province. Accordingly, in place of formal presentations of provincial athletes to the legislature, the government of the province of Alberta intends to officially honor such outstanding athletes with the presentation of achievement awards at an annual banquet.

This year some 53 provincial sports governing bodies have been invited to recommend the names of athletes eligible to be presented with special achievement awards at the banquet. However, any Alberta amateur athlete who has earned top recognition at Canadian and international levels of competition and has not as yet received an invitation should write or telephone the Recreation Branch, Alberta Department of Youth, First Floor, C.N. Tower, Edmonton 1B (494-7638).

Any group, organization or individual may suggest the names of Alberta amateur athletes who should receive the achievement awards on the basis of the following criteria:

- (1) All individuals must be amateurs.
- (2) Competitions must have been held between Sept. 1, 1962 - Sept. 1, 1969.
- (3) All individuals must be residents in Alberta. (Individuals may be attending school in another province or country, but must have competed for Alberta in the Canadian Championships for which they are receiving the achievement award.)
- (4) No individual will be recognized for achievement in events designed specifically for athletes under 16 years of age.
- (5) Each event or competition must be a nationally recognized "open" Canadian championship.
- (6) Individuals must be representatives of Alberta to the Canadian championships, and must have been first place winners in the Canadian championships, "or", must have placed first, second or third in their respective events at one of the following international competitions: the Olympics, Pan American Games, British Empire Games or World Championships.

Deaths from emphysema and emphysema in combination with bronchitis are seven times as frequent among men as among women. Of the 1,862 deaths from these respiratory diseases in Canada in 1968, males accounted for 1,596 and females 266.

Tuberculosis caused 630 deaths last year. Of these more than half, 440, were males.

Christmas Seal funds provide for residents of the province. Although TB is not nearly so widespread today in Alberta as it was, it is significant that there were still 542 active and inactive cases diagnosed last year. This is ample reason for strong public support in the purchase of Christmas Seals to enable the association to fight this disease and other respiratory diseases—lung cancer, emphysema, pleurisy, chronic bronchitis, etc. The general public is asked to make an increasing effort to use the stationary and mobile chest X-ray clinics.

By contributing to Christmas Seals, Albertans can get a piece of the action in helping to improve the health of their communities.

In 1968 there were 883 deaths from emphysema, not complicated by bronchitis, among Canadians. Emphysema with bronchitis accounted for an additional 969 deaths, making a total of 1,852 deaths from these respiratory diseases.
